

SESSION THREE – Christian Employees

What's the best day you've had at work recently? What made that day so good? What was the worst day you had at work this past week? What made this day so bad?

It is not wrong to want to do something for God. It is wrong to assume that you can only do that on a mission field or in a "full-time Christian" job.

Every day you can be a missionary. There is no division between secular and sacred. Everything belongs to Jesus.

What does this statement mean? _____

What obstacles do you find to be openly Christian in a "secular" company?

Do you think it's okay to let your actions speak for you, or do you have to get verbal about it?
